“ Al was a kind, gentle, intelligent, hard-working man. He was always ready for fun—loved taking friends and family to dinner and wouldn’t hesitate to initiate a line dance through the restaurant. After Al retired from Conoco, he and Lenora had more time for the hobby they had taken up while living in Norway: square dancing. He also loved his Greeter job at Walmart and I’m sure people came into the store just to get a warm smile from Al. Most of all, he loved family and friends and I treasure my lifetime of memories of visits to see Al and Lenora.
