“ From our initial encounter there was no doubt in my mind that we were kindred spirits. He walked in the pharmacy and flashed his constant smile and I gave him one right back. We shared many stories and laughed together all the time. I will miss you, but I realize you are smiling down upon us right now.

“ Alfred, Joe and I are certainly going to miss chatting with you. You had a great sense of humor and it was always such a pleasure talking to you. You fought a good fight and now I know you are in heaven with Jesus.

“ Alfred was a true man of God. The day he shared with me that he accepted Christ into his life in 1966, tears ran down his cheeks as he spoke. That tenderness for God that he evidenced that day is what brings us to Him, and keeps us close to Him, no matter what comes our way. Alfred is full of love for Jesus and finally is at the bosom of the One who set him free in the spirit and secured his salvation. Jesus longs for us to be with Him, and so one more saint has reached home, where there are no more tears and no more sorrow. Home at last! We must realize that the ultimate healing is to be with Jesus! He is gathering His special saints who will accompany Him to the rapture, which is soon to come!

“ Dad, Even though we lived miles apart, I already miss your wonderful laugh over the phone. I know I'm going to miss you telling me in a very serious tone of voice: "I love you - take care of yourself."

You had such a big heart and you loved unconditionally. I always felt so loved and safe when I visited you and Beverly that I got the best sleep of my life. We also some of the best conversations and laughs together too.

I'm sorry that Im not able to fly to be with you. I am with you in spirit.

I know I'll see you again.

Love, your daughter, Trish

“ I will miss you so much, Grandpa. Some of my best childhood memories involve you and some crazy story that I'll pass on to my kids; there are too many to share just one here. It is amazing, but not surprising at all, to be meeting all of the people whose lives you impacted with your good humor and positive outlook on life. We love you! -Sarah, Danny, Mia, and Jack

“ Growing up across the street from the Taylors, I will always remember Mr. Taylor with the biggest smile on his face. His smile was so contagious, you could not help but to smile back. Our prayers are with Mrs. Taylor and the family.

“ We didn't know Mr. Taylor very well but when we did see him he always made us laugh. He had a great sense of humor and was very sweet. He reminded us a lot of Robert Duvall and we always say Earl's dad is in that movie!

“Gorwing up, there wasn't a saturday night I didn't spend with Grandma and Pops, and then leave early for church with Pops the next day, so we could come home to watch football. Hearing is deep laugh always brought a smile. Not once did he ever get off the phone without saying 'We Love You, Chris". I am thankful my children got to meet such a wonderful man, who taught us to love our family, love your wife, and love God. You will be greatly missed, but we will watch football again, after all, the hole in texas stadium is so "God can watch his team play"”

“Mr. Taylor did what he was placed on earth to do...he shined like a bright light even in the face of darkness. He brought Joy and Laughter to me whenever I was around him or spoke with him on the telephone. There were times we really didn't know what we were laughing at and that made us laugh more. I will miss him greatly! I know that God placed Mr. Taylor in my path for a reason and for that I am so Thankful!!
My prayers are with Beverly and all the family.
Sincerely,

There are some people that touch your life that you just can't imagine not being there anymore. We love you, Pops...and miss you already.

“ Taylor you were the other half of us. We all loved the same things and thought the same thoughts. You were more a brother than a friend, we were attached at the hip. We'll hold you in our heart till we meet again. I hope there is a golden golf course in Heaven. You will still be present when we take a cruise, or just drive around in circles on short trips to wherever. I'll still hear your voice saying "this is the best I've ever had" when we go out to eat. Now help the Lord prepare a place for us.....until we meet again. Love/Tommy and Jean

“ You've broke away and you've learned how to fly, up towards the sun and right thru the sky. As God led the way, you heard Him say.... your eternal life has started today. "Welcome home my son".
