“ I first met Beatrice Batt and her husband Chuck in 1984, when I became smitten with their daughter Debbie. I drove out to their house in Thompsons and before long became a part of their world when I married Debbie. We had a beautiful son together, Steven William Calnan, who was their everything. When he was only 2, Steven lost his mother to a drunk driver, so even more so, they wrapped their lives around him. She loved and took care of everyone, made THE BEST pecan pies and big breakfast. Sadly, when Hurricane Harvey came, she was displaced, became ill and soon was only a shell of herself. The tables turned and now Steven and his fiancé Brianna took care of her until her last day. God I loved this woman and am heartbroken the little family I met are now all gone. I thank God for Steven and for all my surviving family. With huge love, Goodbye Bea! Save me a seat at the domino table.
