“ Sherrie and Bruce,
I remember all of the times our families got together when we were young. Those were some fun times. But what I remember my mother sharing with us kids was the trip on the train to Washington D.C. with your mom before they were married and when they both lived at the "Y". She said that was one of her fondest memories of all time. Your mom and my mom were just like sisters and even though it became more of a long distance friendship once your family moved to the Houston area, they still talked with each other quite frequently over the years. She and your dad, even after our parents had died, still made sure they sent me a Christmas card along with your father's letter of the past year's summary of your family. Love to all of you. What a classy lady she was.
