“ My sweet grandma, I'll always remember that wholesome laugh that she had when you would laugh it would make me laugh because it came from the bottom of your heart you were so funny the jokes that you used to tell us you would have me laughing so hard , the sweetest memory I have of you is when we were so young just babies and we would be left at your house because Mom and Dad were out you would make us oatmeal with chocolate and raisins even though mom told you not to do it you would still do it and you would laugh it said just don't tell your mom and put extra chocolate in our oatmeal I remember you wiping the chairs for my face when I was hurt when I was living with you, you always told me never to let anybody get to me you always said no matter what anybody said to me or said about me it didn't matter because I was a good person and for me to always keep my chin up you made me believe I was special you made me believe I was beautiful I would wake up in the morning to come and feed you and to make sure you look beautiful and I would walk out to make your breakfast when I went back in you would have your makeup on and your jewelry on and I will tell you Grandma why do you have makeup on and you would say it doesn't matter you don't know whoever's going to show up he might be the love of my life and laugh , I remember you waving at the trash man as he drove by telling me that one day he was going to be your man even though he was so much younger than you it was an inside joke but it was a funny one I'll forever miss you Grandma your beautiful smile your comfortness even you being mean the way you were to me sometimes made my day go by so much faster I'll never forget you I'll always hold you close to my heart my beautiful grandma come and visit me soon
