“R.I.P. Garrett. I arrived an hour or so after everyone left and after they covered you so I could pay my respects without interruption or attention. I'm sorry it had to be this way but I could not bring myself to attend your wake or burial. You were the sweetest giant I knew. The epitome of an upstanding young man with a heartwarming smile and an infectious laugh. Never willing to watch anyone suffer alone. Never. As I write this I have a big smile on my face because when you hugged someone, no matter what size they were, it was like watching you hug a child. Because you had to stoop so damn low to hug everyone because of your height. But that's a direct parallel of the kind of young man you were. Always stooping to help someone else up despite the fact you needed it most. If I could have done more for you, I would have. I remember the countless conversations you and I had and I feel fortunate that I was someone you felt you could talk to. You were the very few that I trusted to talk to as well. I never saw any pettiness or gossip in you or from you. You never slandered anyone or exhibited any form of hypocrisy. And now, feet away from your last resting place, kneeling here all alone and with tears in my eyes, I have to say goodbye. Perhaps I feel the brunt of your passing because I'm writing this over your grave site. Or perhaps the shock from hearing of your passing is wearing off. Whatever the reason, I truly hope and pray that you are at peace. I will try to honor your life and memory by exemplifying and demonstrating the admirable qualities you possessed. Goodbye sweet giant.

*With love,
Forever your friend,

*"I missed your wake,
Not cause I'm fake,
Cause I hate to see somebody so great in that way."*

“ In my experience you've never changed on me and we always kept it real with each other. You created a friendship with my mother that no other friend has accomplished. You were outgoing, kind, caring, respectful, and the best part is that you didn't care if anybody noticed these attributes. You were misunderstood and left us to soon, you will never be forgotten. I love you Garret, just wish I could've said it in person one last time.

“ These words are not mine, but they express how I feel. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any word of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost.

Our thoughts and prayers are with your family.
