“I’ve got dreams, dreams to remember. Good dreams, bad dreams, sweet dreams.” Listening to Otis Redding always reminds me of you, Lennie! You were so real, so down to earth, so unafraid to be YOU, no matter what anyone else thought. I admired you for that. I’ve never known anyone else like you, Len. You had this passionate soul about you. It was contagious, for sure. You were the life of the party, the one everyone wanted to know and be with. There was so much I loved about you and I always will. I pray you are resting with the Lord now, free from all the afflictions you encountered here on earth. May God give your family strength and comfort during this time. You will be remembered and missed dearly! Love, J
