““Uncle Louie”, as I have always known him, was a Larger Than Life Character. His eccentricities and unbridled enthusiasm were balanced by his overall good nature and desire to help others.

He was a seeker, always interested in non-traditional things. He was a musician too, and I think we connected in that way. Louie was also a health conscious person. Something I noted and admired long ago. When something caught his interest, he pursued it wholeheartedly, and did it his own way.

Writers of books, or screenplays, or sitcoms, struggle to create characters like Uncle Louie, but he was a natural. I loved that about him, and I will miss him. I hadn't seen Louie for several years, but he lives on when Sharon and I reminisce about him. He'll always live in my memories as someone who chose to live life, and not let it just slip by. To his everlasting credit... he dared to be different.

“When I was the activity director Richmond healthcare nursing home, Louis would walk through the door close to 12 noon carrying his barstool and start playing piano with gusto and enthusiasm. I will always remember his big smile. All the residents in the dining room loved hearing his poker is the best. They would sing along, their foot, and be swinging their arms in the air. I did get a reflexology treatment from Louis. He is very strong hands and told me what was wrong with me. I am sorry for your loss because he was such a wonderful caring man. He truly wanted to entertain the residents who cared about their happiness!!!

“ Many years since I last saw Uncle Louis. He was brother of my step-father Eddie. I remember well his laughter, funny stories, and accordion playing. I was in my teens and we often mowed the yard at the church in Rosenberg. He was a house painter too with his dad Jerry. He mowed, painted, owned the Vacek Club, played the accordion and allowed lots of people to enjoy his humor and laughter. He loved life and people. I regret not seeing him these past years. Will miss him as a one of a kind person.

“ Louis was my cousin and what I remember about him the most is that he played the accordion. Also he was always smiling. He was the son of my Aunt Mary and Uncle Jerry. Uncle Jerry Vacek had Vacek's band and Louis used to play in it. Rest in peace dear cousin.

“ What I loved most about Uncle Louie:

He was passionate about life and all the things he believed in. He had an infectious smile and instead of waiting for something to be happy about, he looked for something to be happy about. He'd make regular appearances playing his accordion at nursing homes and senior centers because he enjoyed seeing the people laugh, have a good time and forget their problems while listening to the collection of tunes he'd play. It was extremely hard to keep one's toes from tapping when he'd fire up his accordion. He was one of a kind and we are all lucky for having known him and having shared time on earth with him.

“ Bernadette and family,

I have many childhood memories of your dad. On one particular visit to rosenberg, our moms sat in your folks bar and sang at the top of their lungs to a patsy cline song or whatever song was playing on the juke box at the time. Your dad kept yelling at them that they were going to chase all the customers out!! The grin on his face and the faces of the customers said otherwise.

I don't know if you remember my wedding 1971. My folks had an open house in their home and your dad played the accordion. Naturally, our moms were dancing, singing and having a good time like they always did when they were together. Some of my straight laced, hoity toity in-laws almost pooped their pants. They had never seen a family like ours. It was great.

I wish you god's peace and comfort. Your dad is in paradise today.

If god allows patsy cline songs in heaven, I'm sure your dad is accompanying our moms on the accordion right now!

Your cousin,

Jackie
