“ I miss you lynne so much, you were basically my mom and raised me. Not a day goes by that I don't think about you. Writing this I'm crying and I really wish I could go back and be with you again. You were the best mother I could ask for. I miss all of our memories and the food you made lol you made my life wonderful. I love you mama lynne and I'll be up there with you eventually. I miss you.

“ I was devastated to hear of Lynne's passing today. i called the hair salon to make another appointment with you, Lynne, but you were not there. i am so sad now. you were the greatest hair stylist that i have ever had, since finding you in 1990. i left houston for 7 years from 2004-2011 and when i came back last fall 2011, I got to see you one last time for a great haircut. i surely did not think of it being my last time to see you. I am happy to have known you and shared good times at the hair salon with you.
Kindest Regards,
Darryl Lynn

“ Lynne, I'm heartbroken - 15 years of fun talks & lunches gone so fast - friends sharing our common roots. You almost alone kept me "transformed" and from losing myself in grief through a rough spot. Each moment I spent with you left me a better person who could see how much you gave to everyone around you - Lynne, the one who always had some way to give to those who needed you. I'll miss your beautiful smile, your sense of humility, your love for Robin, Pete & family, your kindness, your humor, beautiful eyes, red hair! I'll not eat one bite of pecan pie without thinking of you with a big smile! I love you, and I'll never forget you. You are in my prayers. God bless Lynne, my friend.

“ My Sweet Lynne, I will miss you so. The memories of our conversations while you ran your fingers through my hair will live with me forever. How we laughed as you pierced my ear for the Millinium New Years Eve Party. So many good and happy memories. As Nita & I sat in your kitchen last Thursday, I would have never believed the next day would be your last. I wish that I would have made that hug good bye last just a little bit longer.

Love you baby.

“ Lynne, you will be missed at the family functions, but I know you have the best seat in the house next to Jesus. Your life was too short but you touched so many and we are fortunate to have been a part of your life.

“ How far you go in “the worldly and after” life depends on your being tender with the young, compassionate with the aged, sympathetic with the striving and tolerant of the weak and the strong — because someday you will have been all of these. G.W. Carver

Lynne, you will be missed tremendously.
