“ I loved Aunt Miriam's laugh. She was so sweet to my husband Phillip, my girls, Kate and Kelly and to me. She was a great cook and whenever I happened by her house, she always made a plate for me. She must have enjoyed how much I would brag on her cooking because she never seemed to tire of my visits. I will miss her smiling face. I loved her!

“ Miriam was my mom. She was the strongest lady I have ever known. Her faith in God, before everything best describes her and her whole life. She taught me and my sister (Jackie) to trust in God, follow the rules, be kind to others, never give up, and to always be there for each other.

My mom fit the biblical version of a virtuous women. She was righteous, a frugal wife, a loving and protective mother that we could always depend on. We knew that there was always so much love in her heart for us and especially for my dad. When she no longer had her memory, she would still pray for others around her. Her prayers and faith was so much a part of her everyday life.

I can rest assured that my mother and father are both now in the arms of Jesus, perfectly healed and so happy that they are once again reunited.

How wonderful my young life was with aunt Miriam and uncle Jack. Then we moved, eventually landing in Houston. When I was in high school or had just started college, they moved to Houston. Then, even better, they moved down the street from us. Family once again. They were my favorite aunt and uncle, I guess because the others were so much older. Blessings to this family and my family on this loss.

My mom was the most influential person in my life! I was always a momma's girl constantly clinging to her side. She was the strongest one in our family, always putting God first and making sure we went to church on Sunday morning and evening and made my sister (Nancy) and I go to summer vacation Bible School every year even when we weren't crazy about going! As I've gotten older I know for sure that God never forsakes those that honor him and teach their children to do the same! Even while my mom was going through the awful brain disease dementia, God always took care of her! I'm so thankful I had loving parents that put God first so I could pass down those teachings to my three children Joel, Maggie and Stephen! She doesn't have to suffer anymore and is now with dad and all her family members! Jackie Chang

Miriam was my mother-in-law. In the 47 years I have been in the family, Miriam and I never had a cross word with one another. Quite exceptional for a mother-in-law. Miriam cared and loved her family deeply. One of her highest priorities was to pray for her family's salvation and growth in their Christian faith. After moving to Houston in 1975, she took every opportunity to visit family back in Alabama because family was a priority in her life. She was always so happy about how far she and the love of her life Jack, had come from their meager beginnings in Alabama. Her husband passed away 13 years ago and oh how she missed him because he loved her deeply and she him. She would routinely, during the last 12 months say "Jack, come and get me". It moved more recently to "Jack, I am coming to be with you". Even though the dementia eventually took most of her memory, the staff at the Barton house where she was cared for would tell us stories about how she would pray for the other residents and what beautiful prayers they were and you would never know she had dementia listening to her prayers. She was the baby in her family and with her passing the Noles family has now passed. Miriam always treated me more like a son than a son-in-law. I know Jackie and Nancy will miss her so much but they are rejoicing that she and Jack are once again reunited.

Miriam was my aunt, my mom's baby sister. Mom loved her little sister with all her and talked about her as if she were another child of hers. We felt very happy when Miriam and Jack moved down the street from Mom and Dad in the later years of their lives. They were a great source of comfort and support to each other, including after their husbands passed away. Aunt Miriam always made delicious fudge and was very generous with it at Christmas. We're all very sad that she will no longer be in her lives but are happy for her that she will be reunited with the ones she missed. Love Aunt Miriam and her sweet family.

As a little boy growing up. I was fortunate that aunt Miriam and uncle Jack were regulars at our house. Even today, Judy and I often speak fondly of them both. She was always good to me and I've never forgotten it. She was a loving person of high character and we will miss her.
