“ We are so sorry for all of your loss. She was the best and I can still remember to this day, eating candy bars from the trunk of Mr. Askew's car, staying with her, and crawling up into her bed to take naps. We love y'all. Candy.

“ Mrs. Murlene was one of the strongest women I have been blessed to know. It is because of her I have confidence walking forward in my life and I hope she continues watching over me from the heavens.

“ I will miss you dearly, will remember the times I spent with you till the day you were taken ill. Those are the days we used to talk laugh and make your bed together. I know you are in a better place. One day we will meet its just a matter of time. I always remember the days i cleaned your house whenever i pass FM 359. I will cherish your love the nice cakes you made. May the peace of God be with the family at this trying times. May memories survive
