“ The thought of you being gone breaks me. You were more than just my front door neighbor, my best friend, you were and will forever be my sister. I still remember when we first met about 30 years ago more or less. Who would of thought that we were going to be partner in crimes. Your character, your vibe, your smile and laughter that can make anyone be drawn to you will now be left as a memory. Our friendship was a blessing, I happen to think so. Our promises of growing old and being these old prunes as how we use to say will never be but I know deep down I will one day see you again. Each picture and memory brings such sweet memories of how life use to be, they are now a time machine that brings you back to me. I will miss you sooo much that is for sure and even though your gone I want to believe that you are now exploring the heavens, traveling around seeing it all for both of us. I love you ahora y siempre, sandra.

“ This feels so surreal. It's still so hard for me to even process that you are no longer here. You had this beautiful smile and infectious laughter and could easily make friends with anyone. You had such a beautiful, caring, soft and yet strong soul. You always took the higher road when others treated you wrong and always wanted peace. You always told me that your mother taught you better than that.

I know we barely met back in March 2020 while playing Animal Crossing together and then we hung out in October 2020. But, it felt like we had known each other for years. You shared your life with me and I did the same with you. You were a very close, amazing friend that I wish I had met sooner in life. But, I'm grateful for even meeting you in the first place and having you a part of my life. You made such a huge impact on me, Sandra. You taught me a lot and I will always carry that within me. Everyone that cares for you and loves you will always have that piece of you within them. Always.

Thank you for being such an amazing friend to me and for always being there. I will cherish all the wonderful memories that we made together. Not a day will go by that I won't miss you. I love you, my sweet, beautiful friend..

“ Gonna Miss you Girl ! your laughter is still a recent memory for me ,We had so much fun dancing to Bad bunny baby in our late night adventures in your living room just enjoying the moment with no worries. We had so much plans to do together and I promise to keep those promises I made you . It was a blessing to meet you and I will forever miss you.

“ The news of your passing was a shock. You left this world much too soon. You will be missed and your memory will live on through your children, family and friends. God be with all of them during this difficult time.

“ RIP Sandra. I'm so glad we got to reconnect after so many years. We had so many weekend adventures when we first ran into each other at rack daddy's. I wish we had more time to hang out together. I'm so glad I got to see you 3 weeks ago. Your smile lit up the room. Medinas forever ❤️. My condolences to your family. You will be missed cousin. I will think of you every Halloween cause I know that was your favorite.
