“ Trula was such a sweet, godly woman. She had just been able to return to our Merry Ministries Bible study after years of caring for her husband. We were so excited to have her back and then so shocked to hear of her sudden death. She will be missed.

I met Trula in the first grade and we became best friends for life then. She was an amazing person with a sharp mind right up until she died. Unfortunately, her husband, Jerry, died earlier, leaving her with her family an only child, a daughter and two granddaughters and her sister. She told me that the daughter and granddaughters were angry with her for having brought Jerry back to a nursing home in their hometown rather than leaving him in a nursing home in the daughter's city. They didn't attend Jerry's funeral or Trula's funeral. Although she had a heart attack, it is believed that she died from a broken heart and loneliness only two months after Jerry. Despite the family problem, Trula remained loving with never an unkind word and always a smile for everyone, including her dear sister, Shirley.

My prayer is that one day her family comes to realize one day that anger is not God's will but His path is love.

There is a happy ending to Trula's story--she is with the Lord and her parents and her sweet husband and they are well and happy in Heaven. All hurt and loss in this world is forgotten there so they can enjoy only happiness and love. I look forward to meeting my dear friend again one day there.

Sincerely, Evelyn Hiton
