“ Growing up and living in Ohio and New York for all of my life I did not get to know Uncle WR very well. Most of our interactions were when I was a young child, before my Dad (WR’s brother Greig) died in 1970. My Dad would spend his entire 3 week summer vacations driving us to Texas and Louisiana to visit his parents in Rosenberg, his sister Mary in Rockport, and WR & family in Houston and later in New Orleans. My faded by the years but lingering impression of Uncle WR is that of a kind gentleman with integrity. My most clear and profound memory of Uncle WR, and what best exemplified his qualities is when my Dad died in January 1970 and Uncle WR traveled the 1200+ miles from warm southern Texas to the ice and snow of Columbus, Ohio to comfort and help my dear Mother with the Funeral arrangements. I was not old enough then to understand, appreciate, thank him, and show him the respect he deserved. I am now.
